Investing in Regional Economic Growth

Dear Friends,

Economic Development is about investing in our region.

BDCC & SeVEDS's impact can be measured in dollars, but it's really about people accessing great opportunities, businesses succeeding, and our communities thriving. An essential ingredient to increase impact is capital, hence BDCC's new MELP small business loan program, recent US Treasury's CDFI certification of BDCC, and our federally funded New Market Tax projects. It's also why we are so excited about Windham's two new federally designated Opportunity Zones, which will help attract new capital from the public and private sectors. These new dollars, for instance, helped local businesses like Hermit Thrush and Mocha Joe's leverage their own dollars to grow here in Windham.

We must continue to invest in the future by investing in the people and projects that power the Windham Economy.

The SoVermont Economic Development Summit

In May the second annual summit drew 200 people to a gathering at Mount Snow to focus on envisioning the region's economic future in a day of "optimism and partnerships." The event culminated with a celebration of 24 Emerging Leaders from Bennington and Windham Counties.

Message from the Executive Director

Fiscal Year '18 began with the culmination of our largest real estate project yet. Governor Scott joined us for a ribbon cutting at G. S. Precision's $17.4 million expansion, which kept 315 jobs in Brattleboro and added 111 new positions. Another important development that promises to create major impact came in June when the BDCC became a US Treasury-approved Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI). This will attract larger investments to the region. Whether it's a construction project or new financial structures, we are working to build a vibrant economy. No matter how large or small, from scale-up or startup, BDCC has a way to help.

Strategic planning guides all of this work. With the award-winning Windham Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) due for renewal, we partnered with Bennington County to create the new Southern Vermont CEDS. Rural regional economic development requires these kinds of special partnerships.

We build programs and projects, but we also facilitate connections and fight to secure the resources our region needs to thrive. Efforts emblematic of this approach won recognition this year, with international best-practices awards for the SoVermont Economic Development Summit and for the BDCC & SeVEDS FY17 Annual Report.

Perhaps most exciting is our new workforce educational partnership with the region's high schools and all four supervisory districts. After years of planning and working to raise $500,000 to fund the program for five years, with the support of the Vermont Department of Labor, the Vermont Community Foundation, and the McClure Foundation, Pathways and Pipelines got off the ground this fall! The BDCC is providing a full-time educator to build new connections between classroom and work-based learning for every student. Stay tuned for more on this innovative pilot program.

We serve 27 Windham communities, from regional economic hubs to resort towns and sleepy villages. We connect your high schoolers with career opportunities and help small businesses adapt and scale. We pay special attention to young adults and entrepreneurs working to build a life here, and work every day to increase investment and opportunities so every Windham resident can thrive here.

By increasing our impact and organizational capacity, from expertise to financial tools, BDCC & SeVEDS serve as catalysts for critically important economic opportunities that help people and communities, businesses, and the Windham region as a whole. Thank you for the support, partnerships, and investment that make it all possible.

Helping Businesses to Grow Here

In FY18 we helped 58 companies stay, start, or grow here, managing two large expansions at G. S. Precision and Chroma Technology Corp. We also bid farewell to Incubator tenants Mondo Mediaworks and Vermont Photonics as they outgrew the Cotton Mill and BookPress! Below are a few highlights from the past year:

BDCC's Microentrepreneur Loan Program closed the first two loans in 2018. The new USDA-backed MELP is already helping a new entrepreneur buy and upgrade a local fitness business (and helping the founder to retire!). MELP helped Hermit Thrush Brewery, pictured on the back cover, expand capacity for its sustainable production and add staff. The BDCC works with businesses of all sizes to secure financing and technical assistance.

Tavernier Chocolates Grows at the Cotton Mill

BDCC tenant Tavernier Chocolates is expanding with help and financing from the BDCC, Windham Grows, and Vermont Economic Development Authority (VEDA) so owners Dar and John can keep meeting demand for their delicious products.

With over 500,000 square feet of commercial and industrial space, we host 75 businesses with over 450 employees. Many are being "incubated" with help from BDCC's INSTIG8 and partners like the Vermont Small Business Development Corporation (VtSBDC).

Mocha Joe's Expands Operations in Brattleboro

Known for delicious coffee and a lively Brattleboro café, Mocha Joe's is also a roaster and importer with over 100 employees in the US and abroad. The BDCC helped Mocha Joe's owners Pierre and Ellen Capy connect with an opportunity to "relocalize" operations in downtown Brattleboro. They purchased a new space with partial funding from the Windham County Economic Development Program (WCEDP) that will also house two other growing local companies. BDCC is always seeking opportunities to help companies stay and grow here.

Without the expertise of BDCC we could not have expanded our warehouse and roasting operations in Brattleboro.

Increasing the Size and Quality of the Workforce

Our Workforce Center of Excellence has been developing programs aimed at all levels of workforce. With two new SeVEDS-led initiatives we aim to support employers that need specialized talent today, and are deepening our work with tomorrow's talented workforce.

New Pipelines and Pathways will Connect Kids to Careers

Nearly five years in the making, the BDCC prepared to launch Pipelines and Pathways based on SeVEDS's strategic vision for regional workforce systems. With the help of key funding partners the Vermont Department of Labor, the Vermont Training Program, the Agency of Commerce and Community Development, the McClure Foundation, and the Vermont Community Foundation, the BDCC will invest $500,000 over five years to place a full-time curriculum specialist in the four regional high schools to leverage Act 77 and personalized learning plans and build connections between career opportunities and local students.

I can't imagine having this career or working with the amazing company that I do if it wasn't for the opportunities the BDCC internship program afforded me.

BDCC Paid Internships Become Career Pathways

The BDCC Paid College Internship Program is in its fourth year. One of the most exciting outcomes is when placements lead to a permanent position, which 25% do. This year WW Building Supply hired its own intern full time. Gloria's design background and the training she gained at WW created a great fit that's helping this growing, family-owned local company meet new staffing needs.

New Program Helps Companies Recruit and Retain Talent

In FY18 BDCC launched a new initiative aimed at expanding the size and quality of the workforce by helping companies hire for specialized positions. Targeted Expertise Recruitment and Retention (TERR) is helping employers to find and attract talent and to welcome new professionals and their families to the region. Nine local companies are testing out new recruitment services. Twenty-five companies and organizations have signed on to participate in the collaborative SoVermont Marketing and Recruitment campaign to attract more people to the region.

BDCC reinvested to fund FY18 projects and programs

The Windham Comprehensive Economic Development Strategies (CEDS) has informed BDCC & SeVEDS work with its core objectives: acting regionally; mitigating Vermont Yankee closure impacts; supporting entrepreneurs and business growth; increasing wages; and increasing the size and quality of the workforce. Since 2014 the Windham CEDS has gathered over 230 submissions and vital projects, reflecting a full range of economic activities, from municipal infrastructure projects and major commercial construction to workforce programs and cultural nonprofit initiatives. Since 2014 the CEDS has helped to bring $6 million in grant funding to the Windham region.

In FY18 BDCC secured funding along with our Bennington partner agencies to conduct a 2019 CEDS update encompassing both Bennington and Windham counties. The new joint CEDS will incorporate input from dozens of public meetings and new economic research, and create a set of goals and strategies to guide our work for the next five years. For more information on the CEDS, visit the BDCC website.

BDCC & SeVEDS Staff

“The BDCC has been a great partner and helped extend our capacity to expose students to work-based learning. The Pipelines and Pathways project, and the hiring of a dedicated educational professional, is a thoughtful and strategic way to expand our work together.”

Bill Anton, Superintendent of Windham Central Supervisory Union

The BDCC provides capacity to help businesses, communities, and individuals access state and federal resources.

The BDCC is currently assisting Bellows Falls Area Development Corporation in managing cleanup and redevelopment for the Island Project, which received $1.0 million in funding this year. The BDCC is the eyes, ears, and boots on the ground for the Vermont Agency of Commerce and Community Development, but we also partner across state government from Working Lands to Tourism, the Department of Labor to Agency of Education.

The BDCC is a private, nonprofit economic development organization serving Southeastern Vermont, including Windham County and the towns of Readsboro, Searsburg,

Weston, and Winhall. As one of Vermont's 12 Regional Development Corporations (RDCs), we provide a full range of economic development services to the 27 towns in the Windham region to create a vibrant economy. SeVEDS, the Southeastern Vermont Economic Development Strategies group, was formed to take a strategic approach to the region's long-term economic conditions.
